I am emphatically a workingman—have earned my bread by the sweat of my brow since I was a very small boy—and think I have as good a right to speak for the workingman as any one in Memphis. But I am not a political workingman, therefore will not discuss politics, but something that will be of practical benefit to every citizen of Memphis, but especially those of moderate means. A proposition has been made to form a cooperative coal association in this city, and I think if the different organizations of workingmen would take an interest in it there would be little difficulty in making it a suncess. Pursuant to announcement, there was a large meeting of ex-Confederate soldiers yesterday afternoon in the Planters insurance building, Madison street, to take action upon the death of Lieutenant-General N. B. Forrest, the great soldier. The attendance was composed of prominent citizens, men who had either been with General Forrest in the army, or else had fought for the same cause. A feeling of sorrow characterized the meeting, the proceedings of which pervades this community because of the death of the great soldier. Among the prominent ex-Confederates present were Hon. Jacob Thompson, General W. Y. C. Humes, General Gideon J. Pillow, Colonel M. C. Gallaway, of the Appeal, Colonel R. F. Looney, Colonel C.W. Heiskell (now judge), Major General W. B. Frayser, Mayor Filippin, General Vaughan, General G. W. Gordon, Judge T. W. Brown, Major Steinkuhl, Major Jack Hays, Captain Cochran, Major Winchester, Colonel Rike Burke, Captain Stewart, Judge Adams, Major Hammond, Colonel Taylor, Major Barbour, Colonel James H. Edmondson, Major J. J. Murphy, and Captain R. J. Black.

He understood that General Forrest asked to be buried in his uniform, and was so shrouded. Both the military and the Odd-Fellows could participate in the honors of the burial.

The resolution was adopted, and the five gentlemen whose names appear above were appointed on the committee.

REMARKS OF JUDGE BROWN.

Judge T. W. Brown made a few remarks relative to the dead hero. Judge Brown said the time would come when the name of General Forrest would be recorded the time would come when the past or to any of those of his cotemporaries whose name would live in the future. THE DEAD CHIEFTAIN. General Gideon J. Pillow, upon taking the chair, made a few remarks, in which he gracefully spoke of the genius of General Forrest, and mentioned the fact that he earned his fame, and was a soldier of unprecedented valor and prowess. General Pillow referred to the brilliant part which General Forrest took in the battle of Fort Donelson, and the charge which he made upon the enemy there. He also spoke of his great victories and his dauntless courage. No man, he said, in this or any other country, Our thanks are due to John S. attention. COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS After General Pillow had finished, Colonel M. C. Gallaway moved the appointment of a committee to draft resolutions expressing the committee to draft resolutions expressing the object of the meeting and sorrow caused by the death of General Forrest.

This motion was adopted, and the chairman appointed as the committee: Colonel M. C. Gallaway, General W. Y. C. Humes, Judge T. W. Brown, Major Minor Meriwether and General A. J. Vaughan. The committee then retired for consultation.

REMARKS OF JUDGE HEISKELL. Judge C. W. Heiskell, of the circuit court, who was a colonel in the Confederate army, presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That, through the morning papers, the courts and all public offices, the schools and all business houses be requested to suspend business from ten o'clock in the morning to two o'clock in the afternoon today to allow those who desire to attend the morning to two o'clock in the afternoon to-day to allow those who desire to attend the funeral of General N. B. Forrest.

In presenting this resolution, Judge Heis-kell said that he had, out of respect to the memory of General Forrest, closed his court, a thing which he had never done under simi-a thing which he had never done under similar circumstances except upon the death of General Robert E. Lee. In this instance he did it out of respect to the memory of General Forrest, the greatest man eviscerated by the late war. General Forrest he regarded as the greatest, though, perhaps, he should say that also of Lee and Jackson, who were educated soldiers. Forrest, though not an educated soldier, accomplished more than any other man for the means at his command. "Out of my very great respect to the memory of General Forrest, I took the responsibility, if such it were, of ordering my court closed."

Judge Heiskell's resolution was adopted. THE MILITARY COMPANIES.

General G. W. Gordon moved that the military companies be invited to unite in the funeral procession.

Major Hammond offered the following amendment, which General Gordon accepted and the meeting adopted:

Resolved, That the military companies of the city, the police and fire departments, and the mayor and city council be invited to participate in the funeral services in honor of General Forrest.

Colonel R. Dudley Frayser informed the meeting that General Forrest, who was a member of Chickasaw Lodge, No. 8, I. O. O. F., had expressed a desire to be buried by the members of the order. He suggested, therefore, the propriety of the chairman appointing on the committee members from the or-DISPATCH FROM GENERAL CHALMERS.

The following telegram from General James A. Chalmers, congressman from the sixth district of Mississippi, was read: WASHINGTON, D. C., October 30, 1877.

Your dispatch has been received, and I add my tribute to our fallen chief. General For-rest possessed the dash of Murat, the courage of Ney, and strategy second to no man. His name alone was a tower of strength in battle, and he will live in history as nature's general. JAMES R. CHALMERS. REMARKS OF GENERAL HUMES.

General W. Y. C. Humes, upon reading the above telegram to the meeting, said he would like to make a few remarks, not so much as to the military man as to the private life of General Forrest. His feats and his victories as a military man are known throughout the land, and are as familiar as household words. We all knew his courage and his great military genius, for in these but one other equaled him, and this was Stonewall Jackson. But like Stonewall Jackson in war, he had characteristics like him in private life, characteristics which should be known, especially by the young men of the Circuit Court—Heiskell, Judge.

The court yesterday, out of respect to the memory of the late General Forrest, of its own motion, adjourned till to-morrow (Thursday) morning, when the following cases will be called for trial: No. 4543, Stillman vs Malbooks and school supplies, office stationery, Juvenile books, fine fancy stationery.

But in all the long list of battles, from Canton and Fort Donelson to Shiloh and Gainesville, did he exhibit more courage than he has done for the past eighteen months? During these eighteen months, when attacked and sinking beneath disease, did he display more fortitude and bravery, patience and endurance—characteristics which should be known, especially by the young men of the country. These characteristics were self-abmegation and industry, energy and unflinching courage. REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE. Colonel M. C. Gallaway, as chairman of the committee on resolutions, made the following report, which the meeting adopted:

Resolved, That we, as Confederate soldiers, have received, with the deepest sensibility and the most profound grief, the announcement of the death of General N. B. Forrest, of this city.

Resolved, That in the death of the distinguished deceased the community has lost one of its most eminent and useful citizens, and Resolved, That in the death of the distinguished deceased the community has lost one of its most eminent and useful citizens, and the country a pure patriot, who has signified his readiness to give his transtendent military genius to the defense and perpetuity of the Union and the constitution, which he and we now regard as "one and indivisible."

Resolved, That we remember with pride and gratitude his knightly person, his noble bearing, his brilliant military career, his fidelity to his principles, his galliantry and efficiency as a soldier, and his usefulness as a citizen, in which he shone alike pre-eminent.

Resolved, That as a testimony of respect we will attend in a body the funeral services of the deceased to morrow, at eleven o'clock, and that all Confederate soldiers and citizens be requested to join us in paying the last sad tribute to the memory of our distinguished friend.

Resolved, That the chairman of this meet-

Major Hammond said that as the time was short, a general committee would hardly be able to make the arrangements relating to the funeral ceremonies. As Colonel M. C. Gallaway, Major Rambaut and Colonel Taylor were known to be intimate with General Forrest, and doubtless more familiar with his wishes than any other persons, it would be proper and certainly expedient to intrust the matter of arrangements and ceremonies to those gentlemen, with authority to appoint sub-committees if they deem it necessary. These gentlemen would also represent the military and ex-Confederates, while Colonel R. Dudley Frayser and Captain Black would in addition represent the Odd-Fellows, they being members of the same lodge, Chickasaw, No. 8, to which General Forrest belonged. He understood that General Forrest asked to be buried in his uniform, and was so shrouded. Both the military and the Odd-Fellows could participate in the honors of the burial.

Elsewhere will be seen the announcem for the arrangements of the funeral, which takes place at eleven o'clock this morning, from the Court street Cumberland Presbyerian church, of which General Forrest ha been a member for two years. The Blut City Grays, Chickasaw Guards and Memphi Light Guards will participate in the fun procession and military exercises at the grav in Elmwood. The artillery company als participate. The funeral of General Forres to day will doubtless be the largest and mos impressive ever seen in Memphis.

Sewing-Machine, WHAT IT IS.

IT is the most powerful and durable, the lightest running, and most silent Sewing-Machine made POWER.—The application of force directly over the needle insures ample power and enables it to go through the heaviest work with ease.

DURABILITY.—All the working parts are thoroughly hardened, and so adjusted that lost motion can be readily taken up.

EASE OF ACTION.—The simplicity of its machinery, the few bearings and points of friction, and the absence of all cams and gear-wheels, give it a light, easy action that requires but little motive power.

power.

It has an Attomatic Tension, which being self-regulating, does away with what in other machines is a fruitful source of annoyance and trouble.

There being no cogs to rattle, and no cams to rub and grind, it does its work without noise.

Its action is so light and easy that it can be run by a fine cotton thread in place of the ordinary leather hand. Specially recommended by the medical faculty on account of its light-running qualities. "Why! how easy it runs?" is the invariable expres-sion of those who operate it for the first time. G. W.
